Articles are selected for CME credit designation on the basis of the CME Institute's assessment of the needs of readers of The Primary Care Companion, with the purpose of providing readers with a curriculum of CME articles on a variety of topics throughout each volume. There are no prerequisites for participation in this CME activity.

To obtain credit, please study the designated article and complete the Posttest.

Accreditation Statement

The CME Institute of Physicians Postgraduate Press, Inc. is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

Credit Designation

The CME Institute of Physicians Postgraduate Press, Inc. designates this educational activity for up to 1 Category 1 credit toward the American Medical Association Physician's Recognition Award. Each participant should claim only those credits that he/she actually spent in the educational activity.

Date of Original Release/Review

This educational activity is eligible for CME credit through October 31, 2007. The latest review of this material was August 2005.

Educational Objective

After studying the article by Roundy et al., you will be able to:

- Compare practice guideline recommendations with the actual mental health care received by patients with chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD) and anxiety or depressive disorders.

This pretest is designed to facilitate your study of the material.

1. Which of the following is a practice guideline recommendation for the assessment of depressive disorders in primary care patients with COPD?

- a. History of lithium use
- b. Substance abuse screening
- c. Cognitive disorder
- d. Recreational activity screening

Pretest answer and Posttest on page 219.

Disclosure of Off-Label Usage

The authors have determined that, to the best of their knowledge, no investigational information about pharmaceutical agents that is outside U.S. Food and Drug Administration–approved labeling has been presented in this article.
